LOYAL WOMAN'S WORK

The Household, Conversation Club, Puzzles, etc.

The Happy Household. Coffee Bread .- One quart of sifted flour, four teaspoons of cream tartar sifted through it; three cups of lukewarm milk, two teaspoons of soda dissolved in milk, two eggs (well beaten), half a cup of sugar, a little salt; beat until very light and bake 15 min-utes in quick oven. Eat bot. Broilet Opslers.—Choose large, fat cysters, wipe them each very dry, and sprinkle with salt and pepper; broil upon small gridiron or pierce with a skewer. Some turn the cysters over in flour before roiling, white others dislike the crust; in any case butter the gridiron and have a clear fire. When done serve on buttered toast. Very delicious. Editor's Chat. Household friends should use figures and combinations in sending knitting and erochet patterns, or they string out too long for use. Dora Waste, Croton, Iowa, will send a gentleman's glove pattern in exchange for abbreviations for crochet. Abbie C. Reed, Maple Hill, Mich., received so many letters as to make it impossible to send lace patterns to all.

HAPPY AS A QUEEN.

DEAR TRIBUNE AND C. C. FRIENDS: I have just read in the paper of Feb, 3 the account of Joe F. Dyer's death, and was very much surprised and Byer's death, and was very much surprised and grieved by it, for it hardly seemed possible that the ranks of the C. C.'s would ever be thinned. I was affording them profitable and health-giving exerpleased to find that a few of the C. C. members considered my former letter worth their notice. I agree with A Michigander, and enjoy reading the "deep thoughts of Shakspere." I would like to make the same request that he did—please do not get the idea that I am "dry and prosy," for I assure you I am as lively as any one you can find. "I am sweet 16 and happy as a queen." I enjoyed Tennessee Boy's letter very much. Whittier is also one of my favorite poets, but I do not think one can find such beautiful ideas, and given in such a sweet and musical style, in his poems as we can in those of Longiellow. Whittier's "In War Time" and "Voices of Freedom" are the best poems that were ever written on those subjects, I think, and show his true patriotic spirit. Longfellow said of him, "He speaks only when his soul is stirred," and his most popular poems are those that were written when his soul was filled with enthusiasm. But the poems that piease me most, are those simple stanzas of Longfellow's that "gushed from his beart," and were composed chiefly while he was sitting alone and letting his thoughts lead him wherever they would—"Resignation," "Footsteps of Angels," "The Day is Done," and others of the same class. Whittier's "Home Ballads" and "Legends of New England" are very pretty and extremely interesting, but they do not seem to and extremely interesting, but they do not seem to have the same effect upon their readers as the lit tie poems of Longfellow. Whenever I have "the blues," I can generally drive them away by spending a few minutes in reading one of them. Let us hear from you again, Tennessee Boy.—The Hoosier

GREEN-MOUNTAIN GIRL. FRIENDS OF THE C. C.: Will you admit a "Green-Mountain Girl" into your delightful Club? I have read with interest your letters, especially those about the Western scenery, but have felt sorry to see so little about our Eastern scenery. Now we have not the broad, rolling prairie of the West, but some grand old mountains instead, and when seen here and there a clump of evergreens. It is delightful on a pleasant day in Autumn to ramble through the woods and listen to babling brooks, and as you stroll along gather the brightes and best of the falling leaves to carry home and press for Winter use.

Ella said once it was her favorite flower. have two blossoms on mine, one of them a double one; that is, two blossoms came out from one bud, each pointing in different directions. It is curious, and very preity. There are two more buds on it, and it has had one biossom on it before this Winter. There are five bulbs in the keg. The leaves are mammoth; one of them measures 17 inches in length. It stands quite tall and straight. We keep it very wet, oftentimes leave water standing on top of the earth; use quite hot water on it. Last Winter it had through the season II blossoms, five at one time. I always let it die down during the Summer. Wish I could paint the double blo that I might send it to Ella, who is not the only one who has a C. C. Album. I have one with all C. C. photos, and hope for more. - Annie L. Marsh, Sau-

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

DEAR PRIENDS OF THE CLUB: Our society for the promotion of physical culture is in a flourishing condition in point of numbers, at least, and I think all would agree in point of interest too, could they read the many interesting and wellwritten letters which I have received from the half a hundred charter members. Our society is not fully organized yet, and I would be extremely grateful for suggestions in regard to organization and anything else of interest to the society. Would like each member to state what name they would like for the society (National Gymnastic Society has been suggested by one), and to suggest an appropriate motto; also, to send a draft that si state the aims and objects of the society, and the principles of belief of members in regard to exercise, diet, bothing, etc.

From these I could select the best points, condense them, and from them could form a constitution, or whatever it ought to be called. Then, if members would make voluntary contributions, this could be printed, with names of members, and sent to each one. Would like the opinions of each member in regard to this matter.

When the society is fully organized the members can write to one another, and give opinions and experience in matters pertaining to physical culture, and so help one another in many ways. The following are charter members: Grace A Brown, Tiffany, Dak.; J. J. Harvey, 438 W. 29th street, N. Y.; Lulu L. Cole, South Eliot, Me.; H.

is $1, postpaid. Now, are there not others who wish to join our society? And "Michigan, My Michigan," among all your sons and daughters, are there only two interested in physical culture?—Lena A. Stearns, Leoni, Mich.

INVITATION TO BEAUTY'S FUNERAL. DEAR TRIBUNE: If you remember, I wrote you a long time ago about my cow Buttercup and my chicken Beauty. Beauty is dead. I want all the little boys and girls that sent me pictures for my scrap book to know it. I have selected a place on top of a sandhill to bury her. I am going to have a buffalo head for a monument. My cow Buttereup has three little buttercups, named Snowdrop, Snowball and Topsy. I will close by inviting all the children whose papas were in the 26th Ill. (my papa's regiment) to come to the funeral of Beauty and help me erect the buffalo head over her grave. In my next letter I will tell you about the Indians eating Howard Shaw's dog.-Retia Richmond, Montrose has a $7,000 artesian well of the finest medicinal water in the State; a good sewerage system; plenty of flowing water; three churches; one bank; a roller-process flouring mill of 50 barrels capacity per day; one plaining mill; two lumber yards; two weekly newspapers; four grocery stores; three drug stores; two hardware and agricultural implement stores; three dry goods stores; three hotels; an elevation of 5,350 feet; a S. Signal Station; good society; the most equable climate in the State, and more sunshine than any city in the East. It is surrounded by a magni-ficent farming country, well supplied with plenty of water for irrigation. Montrose is as healthful as any city in the United States.

The most prosperous year Colorado has ever known is the year just closed. The mineral products alone were $26,749,588 in the four leading metals. Real estate throughout the State has been particularly active, sales of which have amounted to nearly $11,000,000. Railroads have extended their mileage, have improved their roads, bridges and equipage, while new roads have been projected and thousands of dollars worth of work done on them preparatory to the great railroad building of the present year. Some Practical Suggestions for Our Agricultural Readers.

IMPROVE THE CORN CROP. EDITOR NATIONAL TRIBUNE: In my former article I dwelt on the importance of planting better seed, and giving the growing crops better cultivation, and as the corn crop is by great odds the most important of all the grain crops in this country, there cannot be too much said in its behalf. Very few people have any idea of the immensity of the corn crop of this country. The crop of 1835 was 1,700,000,000 bushels, and for the six "corn patches" of Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, Indiana and Missouri over 1,000,000,000 of bushels. The crop of 1886 falls considerably short of this, owing to the severe and long protracted drouth throughout the Mississippi Valley. To give your readers a more definite idea of the magnitude of the yearly product of corn in the above-mentioned six corn patches, I will give a few figures. will put this one year's crop on freight cars of 500 bushels each, and find that it will require 2,000,000 cars. They would make one continuous train reaching half way around the globe. Is not corn easily "King"? This vast amount of corn is yearly turned into beef and pork, and goes out to feed the civilized world. Let us illustrate a little further. Let the farmers of these six corn patches grow 11 cars where they now grow 10-just the slight im-provement of one more ear. We will take this extra 11th ear and we find it amounts to nearly 100,000,000 bushels. At the present price of corn this extra 11th ear would bring us the nice little sum of $40,000,000.

It would be a very easy matter for the farmers of these six corn patches to not only produce this extra 11th ear, but much more. It is evident that by planting better seed and giving the growing crop better cultivation, the crop can be increased fully 50 per cent. both in quality and quantity, and this can be done without materially increasing the acreage and cost of production.

Every intelligent farmer should know early in the season how he stands in the way of good seed. It is poor economy to wait till planting time arrives. Those who are not supplied should procure it early, and carefully test its germinating qualities. A good way to do this is to take from 25 to 100 kernels from as many ears and put them in a little earth. A still better way is to take a small box and fill it nearly full of well-pulverized earth; then take two pieces of cotton or woolen batting or old woolen cloth, place the grains of corn between the two pieces of batting (the germ side up), and lay them on top the earth; keep moist and warm, and if any of the grains fail to germinate, you can plainly see them. If the seed is good it will germinate in 48 hours. Care should be taken to keep moist and warm. The winter, when the thermometer indicated 40

Changing seed every three or four years is always followed by good results, providing it is not changed from south to north any distance. A change of only a few miles from south to north does not materially endanger the crop by making it late. In regard to the time of planting the intelligent farmer will be governed by the location, the condition of the soil and the aspect of the weather. Thorough and deep cultivation in its early stages of growth is essential, but deep cultivation later in the season will make a large growth of stalk, but endanger the crop by making it late. This is especially true in high latitudes, where the seasons are short and unfavorable. A long and unproductive stalk is not desirable, as it has been shown by actual observation that an (overgrowth of stalk is almost invariably followed by barrenness, while a medium sized, stocky stalk is always productive.-A. L. GODDARD, Alpha, Iowa.

LOSS OF WOOL. An inquirer concerning sheep losing their wool is thus answered in the American Cultivator: "Old sheep, especially of the fine-wooled varieties, sometimes lose patches of wool from their breasts or bellies. It is always a sign that the animal is feverish, and usually the result of improper feeding. Giving too much grain, especially of corn, is a common cause of this trouble. Sheep thin in flesh have weak digestion, but even the strongest are easily injured by giving corn too freely. Unless care is taken of such sheep some will probably die before Spring. The weakly ones should be kept by themselves, not for the purpose of feeding more heavily, but more carefully. It is better to give no grain at first, but tone up the digestive organs with bran and well-cured clover hay, taking care to give no more than will be eaten clean at each meal. It will do an over-fed feverish sheep good to be thoroughly hungry once or twice a day. Better that, with a good appetite, than the loathing of all food which comes from indigestion. The manure should be cleaned out frequently and a good bed of clean straw provided." THE MAMMOTH DEWBERRY. EDITOR NATIONAL TRIBUNE: "W. E. M." inquires about the Mammoth dewberry. I have been trying to grow it for several years, but with poor success. I have tried it on several kinds of soil, and think it very uncertain the addresses of Lieut. William Kiser, Serg't Reife | in this latitude. The following words, in praise of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as a remedy for those delicate diseases and weak-nesses peculiar to women, must be of interest to every sufferer from such maladies. They are fair samples of the spontaneous expressions with which thousands give utterance to their sense of gratitude for the inestimable boon of health which has been restored to them by the use of this world-famed medicine.

JOHN E. SEGAR, of Millenbeck, Va., writes: "My wife had been suffering for two or three years with female weakness, and had paid out one hundred dollars to physicians without relief. She took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it did her more good than all the medicine given to her by the physi-cians during the three years they had been practicing upon her."

I have had to employ help for about sixteen years before I commenced tak-ing your medicine. I have had to wear a upporter most of the time; this I have laid aside, and feel as well as I ever did."

Mrs. MAY GLEASON, of Numica, Ottawa Co. Mich., writes: "Your Favorite Prescription" has worked wonders in my case.

Again she writes: "Having taken several bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' I have regained my health wonderfully, to the astonishment of myself and friends. I can now be on my feet all day, attending to the duties of my household.

TREATING THE WRONG DISEASE.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here or there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent, or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he prescribes his pills and potions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some womb disorder. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages his practice until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine, like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery.

Mrs. E. F. Morgan, of No. 71 Lexington St., East Boston, Moss., says: "Five years ago I was a dreadful sufferer from uterine troubles. Having exhausted the skill of three physicians, I was completely discouraged, and so weak I could with difficulty cross the room alone. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and using the local treatment recommended in his 'Common Sense Medical Adviser.' I commenced to improve at once. In three months I was perfectly cured, and have had no trouble since. I wrote a letter to my family paper, briefly mentioning how my health had been restored, and offering to send the full particulars to any one writing me for them, and enclosing a stamped-en-velope for reply. I have received over four hundred letters. In reply, I have described my case and the treatment used, and have earnestly advised them to 'do likewise.' From a great many I have received second letters of thanks, stating that they had commenced the use of 'Favorite Prescription,' had sent the $1.50 required for the 'Medical Adviser,' and had applied the

I doctored with an army of different physicians, and spent large sums of money, but received no lasting benefit. At last my husband persuaded me to try your medicines, which I was loath to do, because I was prejudiced against them, and the doctors said they would do me no good. I finally told my husband that if he would get me some of your medicines, I would try them against the advice of my physician. He got me six bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription,' also six bottles of the 'Discovery,' for ten dollars. I took three bottles of 'Discovery' and four of 'Favorite Prescription,' and I have been a sound woman for four years. I then gave the balance of the medicine to my sister, who was troubled in the same way, and she cured herself in a short time. I have not had to take any medicine now for almost

Mrs. MARY A. McClure, Columbus, Kans., writes: "I addressed you in November, 1884, in regard to my health, being afflicted with liver disease, heart trouble, and female weakness. I was advised to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Favorite Pre-scription and Pellets. I used one bottle of the 'Prescription,' five of the 'Discovery,' and four of the 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets.' My health began to improve under the use of your medicine, and my strength came back. My difficulties have all disappeared. I can work hard all day, or walk four or five miles a day, and stand it well; and when I began using the medicine I could scarcely walk across the room, most of the time, and I did not think I could ever feel well again. I have a little baby girl eight months old. Although she is a little delicate in size and appearance, she is healthy. I give your remedies all the credit for curing me, as I took no other treatment after beginning their use.
